Brexit

#brexit (ankerlenke)

The UK has left the EU, and the transition period ends on 31 December 2020. British citizens in Norway and Norwegian citizens in the UK who were receiving unemployment benefit pursuant to the EEA regulations before the end of the year will continue to be able to receive unemployment benefit next year, assuming there are no other changes in their situation. There is more information on Brexit at this link.

I live in Norway

#i-live-in-norway (ankerlenke)

If you have become wholly unemployed and live in Norway, you should apply for unemployment benefits (dagpenger) in Norway.

I am wholly unemployed

#i-am-wholly-unemployed (ankerlenke)

I live in another EEA country and am a frontier worker

(ankerlenke)

You are defined as frontier worker if you have returned to your country of residence (another EEA country) at least once a week.

If you have become wholly unemployed from your work in Norway, you must apply for unemployment benefit (dagpenger) in the other EEA country where you resided during your last employment.

I live in another EEA country and am not a frontier worker

(ankerlenke)

You are not defined as frontier worker if you have worked in Norway and returned to your country of residence (another EEA country) less often than once a week.

If you have become wholly unemployed from your work in Norway, you can choose to apply for unemployment benefits in Norway, or choose to return to your country of residence and apply for unemployment benefits in that country.

- If you choose to remain in Norway, you can apply for unemployment benefits in Norway.
- If you choose to return to your country of residence, you can apply for unemployment benefits in that country.

I live in Norway

#i-live-in-norway-2 (ankerlenke)

If you have become temporarily laid off (permittert) or partially unemployed and live in Norway, you should apply for unemployment benefits (dagpenger) in Norway.

I live in another EEA country and am a frontier worker

#i-live-in-another-eea-country-and-am-a-frontier-worker-2

(ankerlenke)

You are defined as a frontier worker if you have returned to your country of residence (another EEA country) at least once a week.

If you have become temporarily laid off (permittert) or partially unemployed from your work in Norway, you can receive unemployment benefits from Norway and stay in your country of residence.

I live in another EEA country and am not a frontier worker

#i-live-in-another-eea-country-and-am-not-a-frontier-worker-2

(ankerlenke)

You have worked in Norway and returned to your country of residence (another EEA country) less often than once a week.

If you have become temporarily laid off (permittert) or partially unemployed from your work in Norway, you can receive unemployment benefits from Norway.

The main rule is that you must stay in Norway to qualify for unemployment benefits from Norway.

Exception from the requirement to stay in Norway applies if you have worked in shifts or rotations longer than a week at a time, and normally returned to your country of residence during your time-off-periods.

How do you apply for unemployment benefit in Norway?

Det er også deler av siden vi ikke har inkludert i denne rekonstruksjonen, for eksempel er ikke menyen rekonstruert.

Gamle tekster, ny kode

Selv om teksten du ser er fra datoen du har valgt, er koden vi bruker her fra i dag. Hvis du ser på gamle versjoner betyr det at siden kan ha blitt opplevd ganske annerledes på den gitte datoen.

For eksempel ligger design, farger, layout, mikrotekster på noen knapper i koden. Disse tingene kan ha vært annerledes på den gitte datoen, og kan ha hatt innvirkning på hvordan teksten opplevdes.

Enda viktigere er det at endringer i koden faktisk kan ha endret helt hva som ble vist. For eksempel kan det ha vært logikk eller feil i koden som førte til at hele tekstbiter ikke ble vist.

For å nøyaktig gjenskape hvordan siden ble opplevd må man derfor både ha gamle tekster og gammel kode. Koden vår er åpen kildekode, og det er mulig å hente ut gamle versjoner av koden, kombinere den med gamle tekster og dermed se hvordan siden så ut på et gitt tidspunkt. Hvis du ikke har tilgang på den tekniske kompetansen som trengs for å få til dette kan du ta kontakt med NAV.

De gamle tekstene kan du hente ut eller utforske manuelt under Rådata, den er ikke påvirket av dagens kode.

Notifikasjoner

Øverst på sidene våre er det av og til litt informasjon i blå infobokser. De vises ikke i historikken.
